James, appeared for Mr. French.
Mr. French testified that in 1890 his father, Samuel French, sold him his bustness for $250,000, but he said he never paid his father anything. He deeded it back to his father in October, 1896, and also his iterest of 46% per cent in the American interest of 46½ per cent in the American Theatre, the lot and building. His interest was worth, he said, $216,000.

French said he had lost several hundred thousand dollars in theatrical ventures, and now owes his father between $150,000 and $160,000.

Mr. Steinhardt then questioned French as to shares in the Broadway Theatre. French said he held three-cighths of $250,000 of stock. He had bought it at $170 and sold it at par to Frank W. Sanger.

Mr. French then said that there was a first mortgage on the American Theatre, made by him and his father, of $300,000. A second mortgage was secured by a bond of the American Surety Company on his business with Sanger, and a third mortgage was given to Zborowski, the owner of the other 53½ per cent of the shares in the theatre, for rent taxes and other expenses. This mortgage amounted to $50,000.

French said his fullure was due to his having lost $500,000 in the American Theatre.

The examination was adjourned to June

Hermann swore that Falion kept him in a dark cell thirty-six hours without food.

O'Shea gave most of the evidence which resulted in Fallon's removal. The pair have not been friendly, and, as the new warden will be practically in charge, the relationship, it is presumed, will not be pleasant for either.

Chief Clerk Frank R. Kelly, who has been in the Tombs for years, will probably be appointed deputy warden to succeed O'Shea.
